Addnode Group renews major contract with leading Norwegian energy company – the order value is M 90 SEK over a three-year period

STOCKHOLM, October 7, 2014 – JOINT Collaboration AS, a subsidiary of Addnode Group, has been selected by a Norwegian energy company with international operations in over 30 countries, to deliver a collaboration tool for project development. The new three-year contract replaces an existing contract and will be effective as of December 2014.

The collaboration tool is used by the customer for planning and implementation of all development projects and major modifications. The collaboration tool is delivered as a private cloud solution with services.

“We are very proud to once again be chosen as a global cloud solution provider. We have more than 50.000 users worldwide and this contract confirms our quality and continued commitment to deliver SaaS/cloud solutions for project collaboration in the construction, infrastructure, power and oil & gas industry,” says Steinar Svinø, CEO, JOINT Collaboration AS.
